COPENHAGEN INVITE FOR ADELAIDE

In Copenhagen, Premier Mike Rann has invited world leaders in green business and renewable energy to attend an international conference in Adelaide early next year.

The CleverGreen Conference will be held in Adelaide, at the Convention Centre, in February.

“CleverGreen will be an international showcase for South Australian innovation in cleantech products and services in areas like water management, recycling, energy efficiency, and renewable energies,” Mr Rann said.

“It will also promote cleantech innovations and achievements of our local universities and research organisations, and link potential investors.

The Premier, who chaired an international conference of state Premiers and Governors plus business leaders, told delegates about CleverGreen.

He also presented California Governor, Arnold Schwarzenegger, with an award for being the state leader internationally who has done the most to promote actions on climate change.
